

What Type of Curious are You?

We live in a world full of mystery and uncharted territory, and we are all curious about what we do not know. Each one of us explores our curiosities in different ways.

What's your way? Take the quiz to find out.

- 1 You're walking in the woods alone and you hear a noise coming from behind you. You:
 - A Pick up a stick off the ground and some nearby rocks, grab a rubber band from your pocket and create a slingshot. Just in case.
 - B Look around, realize the world is incredibly beautiful, start humming "What a Wonderful World".
 - C Remember a book you read on surviving in the wilderness. You stay calm, stop, and formulate a plan based on your research.
 - D You smile widely, turn around and say, "Hello!"
- 2 You have to make a huge decision that could change your life forever. You:
 - A Know that innovation does not come without change, so you embrace it, knowing that there may be a lot of hard work ahead, but it will lead to something glorious.
 - B Follow your heart. But, before deciding, you write about it, you dance around the room, you go on long walks, you imagine a new life while clutching your old.
 - C Consult with friends, with family, with former teachers. You assess everyone's opinions. You study the effects of this decision; you collect the data and do what it suggests.
 - D Laugh and get giddy with excitement. Something new, something different, some change? You can't wait!
- 3 When you were a kid, you could always be found:
 - A Leading your friends on adventures to places no one else ever went.
 - B On the stage, on the dance floor, painting a canvas, writing a poem – creating!
 - C With your head buried in a book.
 - D Surrounded by people, making friends with everyone you met and always finding ways to have fun.
- 4 You are in a room with four items on a table. Which one do you reach for first?
 - A A blank sheet of paper
 - B Fingerpaints
 - C A book of trivia questions
 - D Jump rope
- 5 There's an elephant in the room. Literally. You:
 - A Form an organization of passionate people dedicated to saving elephants. Tackle elephant advocacy in a way that finally makes people listen and care.
 - B Develop an art piece around the elephant. Paint it, dance with it, act with it, use the elephant to make the word a better place.
 - C Track down the leading elephant experts and ask them all about elephants. What do they eat? How do we care for them? How do we get them out of a room? Use that knowledge.
 - D You calmly go up to the elephant and pet its trunk, making it feel loved. You sing to it, you play with it, you name it Steve.

Results:

Mostly A's: You are a Trailblazer

You are the innovator, the leader, the one with the passion and drive to turn dreams into reality. When you're curious about something, you explore it by diving in, never looking at it the way everyone else has looked at it before.

Your Curious twin:
Chip Walton,
Founder and
Producing Artistic Director

"I am constantly curious, constantly seeking new ways to approach important questions and issues. I want to be revolutionary."

Mostly B's: You are an Artist

To you, the best way to change the world is by making art. You live to create and create to live. You believe a question is best asked and best answered through art.

Your Curious twin:
Karen Slack,
Artistic Company Member, Actor

"Art is the greatest tool we have. Art expresses and explores curiosities unlike anything else and we are all better, smarter, kinder for it."

Mostly C's: You are a Scholar

You know that knowledge is power and are dedicated to learning all that you can about this strange place we live in. You seek out information from all sources, and when you are curious, you do your research. When you can, you share your knowledge with others.

Your Curious twin:
Christy Montour-Larson,
Curious Artistic Company Member,
Director, Teacher

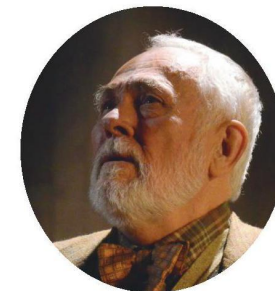

"I learn every day—from my students, from my peers, from my husband, from books—there's so much to be Curious about, so much I don't know...and I love that!"

Mostly D's: You are a Delight

You approach every situation with a huge grin and a joyful attitude. Your warmth can light up a room. You explore curiosities with an infectious positivity that people are drawn to.

Your Curious twin:
Jim Hunt,
Artistic Company Member, Actor

"I love to seek answers and ask questions with my loved ones. We're all curious, and it just warms my heart to know that we're all working on things together."

Our Curiosities connect us. Curious connects us.

A gift to Curious Theatre Company will ensure that important questions are asked and that critical contemporary issues are addressed through powerful theatre.